Anybody passing down Holbrook avenue Sunday night, shortly before midnight would have witnessed the unusual spectacle of one of Danville's best known physicians clad in his patient's clothing, and with a revolver in his hand, being escorted by a police officer to the city jail.

James on the front porch, saving a man from death. As the story goes the physician was proud and going to the front door was faced by a negro literally raining blood and staggering from weakness. Recognizing the necessity of prompt measures the bleeding negro was laid on the porch where it was discovered that he had a wound in his arm which had severed a large artery. A tourniquet was applied and stitches taken, whereupon the negro LeRoy Moore by name was removed to Providence Hospital. His first version of the wound was that he had slipped on a banana peel while carrying a nail file which he had run into his arm. Later, however, upon the suggestion that his mind might have been wandering when he thus explained it, he said he had been stabbed and was trying to reach a hospital when weakness overcame him and he made for the first house in which he saw a light. It happened to be the physician's home.

City Attorney A. M. Aiken has a trump card which he expects to play before long in combating the injunction proceedings recently started in this city by the Communist party. He is expected to bring out the fact that the Communist party is a foreign organization and that it is not entitled to the same rights as a domestic organization. This is a point which has not been fully considered by the courts in their previous decisions.

SIX-ROOM HOME BUILT ON SQUARE PLAN

First Floor Plan: Porch 5'-8" x 5'-6", 10'-6" x 8'-10", 12'-12" x 12'-4", 23'-2" x 12'-4", Porch 20'-6" x 9'-0".

Second Floor Plan: 8'-6" x 12'-10", 10'-6" x 12'-10", 12'-6" x 9'-4", 9'-4" x 12'-10".

Six-room houses are by far the most in demand by average families. Here is an out-of-the-ordinary example combining all the convenience of the always-popular square plan with a distinctive and pleasing exterior. It requires considerable skill to achieve a well-designed exterior for a square house and this one merits special study.

The hip roof, the large front porch, central chimney, central entrance and long living room with a stairway at one end—all these are there. The use of half-lambers and batten shutters lend originality.

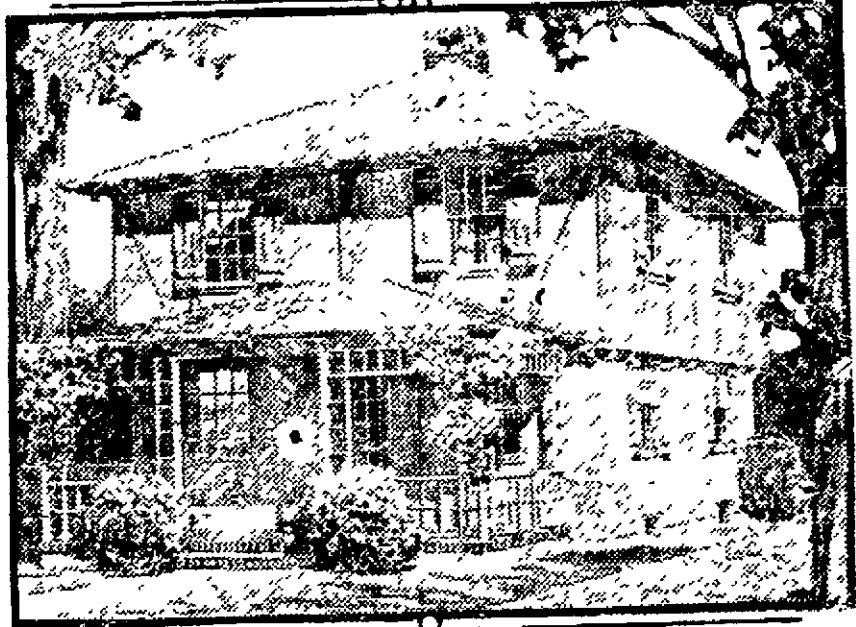

The "second" door has an overhang with brackets. Lattices rather than heavy pillars are a pleasing variation in the porch treatment.

The living room gets the benefit of windows on three sides. There is a convenient passage to the kitchen so that one may answer the door-bell promptly. A closet in this passage may be used either for coats or as a broom closet.

It is easy to picture the dining room pleasantly furnished since a pair of corner china closets are built in with French doors between. The kitchen is small but large enough to contain the needed equipment.

Two of the three bedrooms are cross-ventilated. Each has a large closet and one has a built-in tray arrangement that closes behind a regular door, while another has a built-in dressing table and a small closet in addition. The bath-room is extra large—8 feet by 9 feet 4 inches, so the large linen closet is located here with a towel closet near the bathtub and a medicine case over the lavatory.

This house, in the average city, should cost about $6175, figuring 30 cents to a cubic foot.

GUBERNATORIAL RACE IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

(By The Associated Press)

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 2.—Returns from 107 out of 294 election districts in New Hampshire gave Mayor Frank Knox of Manchester 6,254 votes against $640 for Captain John G. Winant of Concord, his opponent for the gubernatorial nomination for governor in the outstanding contest of the primary held here today.

Slightly more than a score of districts gave Fletcher Hale and Congressman Edward Tamm a lead of about 3 to 1 in the first and second districts respectively for the Republican congressional nominations over Oscar P. Cole, and Fernando W. Hartford.

In New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—She has been starting trips to Coney Island and Chinatown several times a day for nearly ten years and hasn't visited either place yet.

Each day the sightseeing buses come to 32nd street and Broadway. The barker step down and invite pedestrians to ride to Coney Island or through the maze of mysteries of Chinatown.

Almost before the barker has time to finish his spiel, the woman, aging but still attractive, climbs into a seat. Soon one or two others join her.

Then the long wait for customers begins. One by one the seats are filled and the driver makes ready for the journey.

It is then the woman who climbed aboard first, calls the driver and asks to be directed to a building. She has just remembered something important that must be attended to. Always the place she seeks is "just around the corner."

She is given a ticket for the next trip. No money ever is refunded, it is explained. But she doesn't mind. Her important matter is foremost in her mind.

For years she has been doing this. She is a professional "capper," hired to make the break in the line of those who would like to make the trip. She is hired by the sightseeing company. They follow the rule that sheep will follow the leader. They are correct in their supposition.

For three successive nights a barker has flown across the stage of a musical show which recently opened. It is taken as an omen of a long run by the superstitious performers. Because the famous mystery play, "The Bat," enjoyed a long run in the same theater. Ordinarily it would be interpreted the same as rats leaving a sinking ship.

Xavier Scharwenka, a Polish composer, 75 and interested in music, recently called from New York after a several months' vacation here.

"How did you like jazz music?" he was asked.

Dubiously he shook his head and confessed he never had heard "that sort of music."

DAILY PUZZLE

○○○○○○○○

The drawing shows a chess board, with a queen on one of its squares. The queen can move in any direction, vertical, horizontal, or diagonal, as indicated by the arrows.

The problem is to place eight queens on various squares of the chess board, and to set them in such positions that no queen can capture another, in other words, no two will be on the same vertical, horizontal or diagonal line.

Yesterday's answer:

A had $11, B, $7; C, $21.

If B should win $5 from A he would have three times as much as C. ($12 to $5).

If A should win $13 from C, he would have three times as much as C ($24 to $8).

If C should win $3 from B, he would have six times as much as B ($24 to $4).

ANY OIL

Safety lies in the use of the name

THE use of the brand name in buying lubricating oil is of far more importance than most motorists realize. Here is a product on which the efficient operation of your car, its freedom from trouble and its term of usefulness largely depend. Yet the layman has no means of testing the oil in advance to see if it is of a satisfactory quality. In fact, he may not even see it before it is poured into the crank case.

You buy oil almost entirely on faith and your strongest safeguard lies in the use of the brand name. There is usually no sealed package to identify it by, no peculiar color or marking to distinguish it from substitutes. Just a name, and it must be insisted upon constantly by the buyer to be of any protection to him.

We take great pains to display the name on every container of genuine "Standard" Polarine Motor Oils. We do everything in our power to prevent substitution. But when all is said and done the buyer is not fully protected unless he asks for "Standard" Polarine by name, adding "medium," "heavy" or "extra heavy" as specified for your car on the Polarine Chart of Recommendations.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Evidence is accumulating that the storm-center of the Republican campaign will be Charles G. Dawes, G. O. P. vice presidential nominee.

Dawes is destined to be painted as a political Jekyll-Hyde, a dual personality, alternately a hard-as-nails capitalist and disciplinarian and a pensive, dramatic sentimentalist.

Democrats already have been able to capitalize the "hard-boiled" Dawes, he of "Hell-and-Marla" fame and of strong expletives. Also they claim to have found a definite reaction against Dawes' even more cutting the distance at Portland, Maine, where photographs of Dawes, pipe in mouth, were withdrawn following protests by local W. C. T. U. leaders.

As a result of this line of attack on their vice-presidential candidate, Republican publicity is engaged in presenting the other Dawes, the one which is less spectacular and vociferous, but which they claim is the Dawes that would be in the ascendant in high office.

This Dawes is a cultured, aesthetic gentleman, a patron of the arts, himself a musician and composer, a humanitarian who establishes refuge homes where hungry jobless men can find shelter and warmth.

To back up this picture of Dawes his "Melody in M. Major" perhaps his most beautiful composition, has been produced in photograph records and is slated for extensive distribution.

G. O. P. headquarters cites that a Chicago violinist touring Europe, has included the Dawes composition in his repertoire and is making it the hit of his concert.

So impressed was President Masaryk of Czechoslovakia with the Dawes composition that the violinist felt justified in sending a cablegram telling about it.

"Gen. Dawes' composition is the logical successor to 'Humoresque,'" Masaryk is said to have said. "America has produced in him a man whose music is as large as your country, and naturally a verdict like that just couldn't be suppressed by the Republican party publicists."

While Republicans are emphasizing more and more the Dawes of culture, the musician and composer and philanthropist the Democrats continue hammering away on Dawes as a "hard-boiled egg" who pines his periods with profanity, chews up pipe stems, smokes the desk when he talks and raises "Hell-and-Marla" generally.

It is from these two widely divergent pictures that the public at large must make up its estimate of Coolidge's running mate. Republicans are hopeful, however, that even in the Democratic likeness will be helpful in lining up the votes of red-blooded, vigorous voters, while the diletante image of the musician and dreamer, are counted on to win for him the ballots of the less strenuously emphatic.

Possibly never before did the second place men on the presidential ticket get, by comparison, as great a part of the campaign publicity as they are getting this year.

Just as Dawes made the target of the Coolidge opposition, so Bryan made more brackets from the Republicans than Davis, and Wheeler draws the fire of both old parties from his Independent chief, LaFollette.

Pictou was all dressed up for the American fliers coming, with streets decorated with the stars and stripes, and welcome signs hanging from windows and from business houses.

The Canadian destroyer Patriot was standing by her, ready to aid if necessary, and a plane from the Canadian air force was placed at the disposal of Commander Conant Taylor of the Barry to go out and greet the fliers on their arrival.

The destroyer Chain, as it was made up with the fog and rain came in this morning, included the Charles Auburn at the start, the Coughlin on station midway, the Cruiser Richmond traversing the route and the Barry standing by.

From every ship came the word of bad threatening weather.

Officers Clark and Towell hastened to the institution at noon today on receipt of reports that a "crazy man" was menacing life and property there. Officer Clark said the police were unable to secure a coherent account of what had caused Wiles to act as he did though it was said that he received treatment according to his wife who is an inmate of the hospital pending an examination by doctors.

Tiger Grid Squad Reports Today

(By The Associated Press.)
HAMPTON-SIDNEY, Va., Sept. 3.—Hampton-Sidney gridiron warriors will answer the call of Coach Bernier September 3. Nearly four weeks of intensive training are decreed before the opening encounter with the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, September 29. The initial game will start a season which fans say will prove a heavy card for the Tigers.

It will be Bernier's seventh year as mentor at the institution, he having served five years there prior to his going to V. P. I. It will be the second year of his second engagement at Hampton-Sidney and he expressed himself as confident that his material for the 1924 season will be much better than last year's and consequently he expects to build a formidable eleven.

Followers of the Tiger's athletic fortunes say the schedule this year may seem a bit too ambitious, but it is a known fact that Bernier will tackle only the best of opposition.

Few colleges of less than 200 enrollments care to take on three opponents of the class of Virginia, V. M. I. and V. P. I., but not only is Hampton-Sidney a scheduling "Big Three" of Virginia, but plans are on foot to secure a date with one of the large eastern colleges.

Here is a glimpse at the material which Bernier will use in the construction of his eleven. Around Captain Blankenship and Ed Sawyer, of Petersburg, the Tiger coach will build his line. These two players are seasoned veterans and will be backed up by Eldridge, Vance, Stover, and Reveley, competing for the tackle positions. Ott, Hurt, and Richardson may be used at guards. The latter played center last year, but it is the opinion that he will be utilized at the guard position this season.

Dick Dudley, of Richmond, will again receive first call in the pivot position. Tyson and Jones are most promising as ends, but several aspiring youngsters may give keen competition for the berths.

It is in the backfield department that Bernier is feeling most his concern, say those familiar with the material at the Tiger school. Several of the veterans are not returning and Adams, a forward passer and open field runner of great ability, is expected to develop into a better player than Ben Smith, a last year's graduate. Harper, a fleet West Virginian, is slated to stand in one of the halves. Monk Liesfield and John Brinsner, two Richmond boys, are expected to compete for the line-up behind the lines. The former is a burly line plunger and has shown good ability in defensive tactics. The field general and signal caller will front Jones in the person of Harold Dudley, who played the quarterback position at John Marshall High School, and is said to be better qualified to lead the Tiger offensive than any man since the days of the colorful Todd Thurman.

Little is known of the ability of the new men who will report for their first workout under the Hampton-Sidney banner. Steve Burnett, captain of the 1923 team, is expected to continue his position as quarterback.

The Tiger class-rooms last year but was not eligible. It is not known where Darnier will use Burnett in the line-up, but a berth for him is felt practically certain. Myles Simmerman and Shepherd of Greensboro are a trio of promising youngsters.

In all forty men are expected to report to Bernier. There will be plenty of time to prepare for the Virginia contest September 29 which will be followed the next week, October 4th, by the fray with V. P. I. at Blacksburg. The other heavy game is scheduled for November 1st, when the Tiger will clash with V. M. I. at Lexington.

ONLY FOUR WERE KILLED IN VIRGIN ISLAND STORM

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A comprehensive account of the hurricane which swept the Virgin Islands last Thursday night, received today from Captain Phillip Williams, the naval governor, minimized previous reports of casualty and property damage. It declared "no casualties were reported in St. Thomas beyond minor injuries and exposure," while St. John, chief sufferer of the American island group, escaped with four inhabitants killed, one missing and a considerable number injured.

While no complete estimate has been made of the extent of the property damage to St. John, Capt. Williams said, between 300 and 400 houses of the poorer people were destroyed. Reports from the island of St. Croix indicate that it escaped without damage.

McDonald and Herriott Attend League Session

(By The Associated Press.)
GENEVA, Sept. 3.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain and Premier Herriot of France attended today's session of the League of Nations assembly and received a great ovation as they entered the auditorium.

The heads of all the delegations shook hands, after which the two premiers took their places with the other representatives of their respective nations.

Mr. Motta, as president of the assembly welcomed Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Herriot in a graceful speech. He thanked them for coming, speaking in the name of all the delegates and said the interest thus manifested by them was indeed a happy omen for the future activity and importance of the league.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Paschall and daughters, Misses Grace and Gladys, were the week-end guest of Mrs. C. P. Mitchell.

"During the night of Thursday, August 28th, the report said, 'the Virgin Islands were swept by a hurricane. It originated in the westward island. The islands of St. John and St. Croix, which, with St. Thomas, comprise the Virgin Islands of the United States, were warned by St. Thomas of the approaching storm.'"

"At about 5:00 in the afternoon the first gusts of the wind were felt. From then on until 8:30 the velocity of the wind increased to a gale. At 8:30 the hurricane began and lasted without interruption until after two o'clock next morning."

"The ships in St. Thomas harbor, which had sought refuge in the more protected areas earlier in the day, experienced considerable trouble in remaining at their moorings, but were undamaged."

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotion Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM ALICE HAMILTON WHITNEY TO LADY BETTY CARNOVAN

My dear Betty: You will see from the enclosed clippings that my marriage to Karl was a very tame event, after all. Dad is still far from well, and some things came up which made it imperative that it should take place at once. It all happened over these beastly pearl beads. I hate to confess it, but sometimes I think that Karl has a sneaking love for Leslie—Leslie, who always was one of those mealy-mouthed bits of mid-Victorian sweetness. (Forgive me, my dear, for making an invidious remark about the queen, who is probably one of your calendar saints).

However, you and I are much more frank and much more independent in our thought. I've always envied Leslie those pearls, and although Karl has given me two wonderful strings, I had a yen for the ones he had given Leslie. Like a fool, I set myself out to get them.

I knew what a time Leslie had and how frightened she was over an anonymous letter that was written to her about them some months ago when I was abroad, so I conceived what I thought at the time was a brilliant, but what I have found out since was a particularly stupid idea of writing an anonymous letter to Leslie's husband. You see I knew that he didn't know the pearls were real.

Well, it kicked up an awful fuss. Seems that stupid husband of hers got very jealous all at once, and Leslie made dad's illness an excuse to come to him. She accused me of writing the letter, and what's worse, she practically accused me right to the face. Karl and I do it quick, so I staged another little drama.

I let Karl find me in the summer house with a small bottle of water marked "Poison." When I saw him in the doorway I gasped out "good-bye" and ran to the bottle in my lips. Betty, I've come to the conclusion that I was not born to be an author, as we thought we both were, but that some day I shall be a great actor, for the thing worked like a charm. I dared to hope. Karl rushed forward, grabbed the bottle, took me in his arms and called me every endearing name I ever heard before and some I had not heard.

I told him I was afraid I was going to lose his love, and I could not live without it. I owned up that I had written the anonymous letter, but explained that it was my last desperate attempt to keep him from loving my sister or any other woman. Betty, men are easily flattered, aren't they? Even Karl seemed to think that if I loved him like that, he should try to make me happy, so he suggested that we be married right away.

We managed to get a license late in the afternoon, and were married. Now if I can persuade him to go over to England to live, I think I will be quite happy. I know that I cannot live here, because mother and Leslie both seem to feel that I've committed the unpardonable sin. I don't think so, but I do think I've been incomprehensibly stupid, and sometimes feel that I haven't reaped yet the full reward of that stupidity. Lovingly, ALICE.

C. M. T. C. Home Clubs Suggested

(By The Associated Press)

RICHMOND, Sept. 3.—Formation of C. M. T. C. home clubs, whose active membership is to consist of those attending Citizens' Military Training camps, local commission officers of the organized reserves, and local representatives of the national military training camps association, is suggested in a circular just received from Third corps area headquarters by the adjutant general.

Purposes of these clubs as outlined, are to stand for patriotism and obedience to law; to promote moral and religious influences in the community; to offer services in cases of emergency, such as fires, floods, epidemics, and riots; to work for the welfare of the C. M. T. C. and to foster a spirit of helpfulness and lasting brotherhood toward comrades of the club.

The emblem of the clubs is the American flag, which should be placed over the president's chair at the opening of each meeting, while the members stand at attention. A bugler is present, the call "to the colors" is sounded.

"It is not considered advisable," the circular states, "to have any secret work in the club, such as with obligations, grips or passwords, which might conflict with the conscientious scruples of any members. In such a patriotic organization there is no place for any discrimination whatever as to race, religion or individual beliefs of members."

Supreme Court Asked For Ruling On Sugar Case

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The supreme court was asked today to decide whether sugar produced in Cuba and partly refined in Canada, is to be the product of Cuba within the meaning of the Cuban reciprocity treaty of 1902 granting to the importer a 20 per cent. reduction in the regular American duty.

In a petition for a writ of certiorari, counsel for Ernest L. Marks company asks the court to review the judgment of the United States Court of Customs Appeals, which held that such sugar was not entitled to the reduced duty. The sugar was entered at Chicago from Canada.

17 NEW PLAYS IN ONE WEEK

By THE NEA PLAY JURY

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—It was certainly Labor Day on Broadway. Seventeen new shows opened.

First nighters were torn between vacation and habit.

Critics had no choice; nor producers, nor directors; nor actors.

One promising play, entitled "Nerves," But you could have found nerves in any of the playhouses.

It was a hectic getaway for the new season. A few plays had already dropped like fall leaves and all but one or two will be blown away by the first stiff competition.

Two such came last week: "The Easy Mark" and a musical shown "Bye, Bye, Barbara."

Some critics suggested that the title of the latter was ominous. The piece was cursed by a bad book and the music is not sufficiently good to pull it through.

"The Easy Mark" is cut to a pattern young man with oil land who is about to sign it away to the villains when the fountain pen handily runs dry; the land did not have an oil well after all and the hero is able to foil it on the villains in the end. There is an excellent cast and some good moments.

"The Werewolf," brought from Europe as a "shocker" was found no longer to startle sophisticated modern day audiences.

Coming events, however, have been casting their shadows all over the provinces.

There is, for instance, the John Golden production, "Elga." Our secret agents in Connecticut say that this will be a success of "The First Year" type. Frank Craven is directing it and Wallace Ford will hit bitious young man who would hitch a lame horse to his star. That is, the entire play is devoted to his struggle for $250 needed for the purchase of a new automobile.

From another spy in Newark, N. J., comes word that "The Golden Spoon" will be just that for some managerial mouth. It deals with Jewish family life through three generations with a human and humorous touch, and the moral has to do with the much discussed question of money bringing happiness.

Other plays, in the opening of which there has been much interest are George M. Cohan's "Hallowed House," "Havoc," "Conscience," "The Green Beetle," "Be Yourself," and "Lay."

Old friends of last season are returning, including "Rain," "The Swan" and "Stepping Stones."

"The best people," a new comedy by Avery Hopwood and David Gray, has reached Broadway in the form of a musical.

It is funny. It makes you laugh. Its action is fast. There isn't a moment when it lags. And after all, this is the test of a comedy, one which does not succeed and will probably get it.

In the cast are such performers as James Richmond, Florence Johns, Charles Richmond and Frances Howard. Rennie always can be relied upon for an intelligent characterization.

But the case of Florence Johns deserves more than passing notice.

Her last outstanding role was that of the daughter in "Children of the Moon," well-bred, family-protected girl. She created a following who loved her, possibly for her great art, but more probably for her ability to interpret a particular phase of life.

It remained for "The Best People" to widen her field of admirers. This time they sing her praise for her versatility.

She is a gold-digger. An uneducated, coarse-but-well-meaning moth of the white lights. She is a disciple of the god "Gimmie." There is a vestige of the sensitive girl of "Children of the Moon."

Frances Howard, who plays the part of the flapper daughter, seems destined to become one of the leading comedienne of the stage.

It isn't every day that a daughter of the "best people" marries the family chauffeur and the son decides to cast his lot with a chorus girl. But then, if such a practice were common, a play about it wouldn't be interesting, would it?

Lucienne Hervé, French dazzer, who will appear in the "Fantine Show."

Her last outstanding role was that of the daughter in "Children of the Moon," well-bred, family-protected girl. She created a following who loved her, possibly for her great art, but more probably for her ability to interpret a particular phase of life.

It remained for "The Best People" to widen her field of admirers. This time they sing her praise for her versatility.

She is a gold-digger. An uneducated, coarse-but-well-meaning moth of the white lights. She is a disciple of the god "Gimmie." There is a vestige of the sensitive girl of "Children of the Moon."

Frances Howard, who plays the part of the flapper daughter, seems destined to become one of the leading comedienne of the stage.

It isn't every day that a daughter of the "best people" marries the family chauffeur and the son decides to cast his lot with a chorus girl. But then, if such a practice were common, a play about it wouldn't be interesting, would it?

THE "THRILL" BUSINESS

In Grand Rapids a woman—a wife
 and mother—is under arrest because she stole dresses from a department
 store, not because her circumstances influenced her to do so, but not because she wanted the "thrill" of it.

In Maine a young boy was caught
 while driving a bootlegger's automobile. He was not a member of the gang. He cared nothing about liquor and did not drink himself, or sell
 drink to others. He liked "the thrill"
 of being chased by the prohibition
 officers and just "stepping on the gas."

In a little town of the middle west
 a boy of 14 is in the hands of the constable because he has been scattering tacks and screws along a much-traveled highway adjacent to town, much to the damage of automobile tires and otherwise comparatively good dispositions.

He had no feeling of ill-will
 against machine or driver, just liked
 to hear the hiss and pop of air-filled
 tires and the vocal outbursts of outraged motorists. He liked "the thrill"
 of it.

A young man in New York has been caught by the police, after a long quest. He had set fire to some 20-odd empty houses. He was possessed by an irresistible desire to hear the clatter of fire apparatus, the shouts and screams of men and women and to see the rush of crowds
 and the roll of the ominous smoke.
 He liked "the thrill" of it.

Up in Chicago two young men
 given every advantage in life, but probably over developed mentally,
 picked up a little boy from the streets
 placed him in their car and killed
 him just for the purpose of getting
 "the thrill" of murder. They are awaiting sentence now.

The "thrill" business seems to be on the increase, but, even at that, it stands out distinctively and repulsively because it is exceptional. Reaction from it will come in due time, as always is the case, and law and good order will prevail.

As a matter of fact, people everywhere, in a vast majority, are now
 going about their usual affairs soberly
 and sedately, and their influence
 for even and level living cannot be neutralized by tangents in crime or otherwise.

Common decency never will be and
 never has been entirely out of fashion.

ENTERING HIGH SCHOOL

A large group of young men and young women (they aren't boys and girls after they get out of the grades)
 will enter high school on Tuesday.

Entering high school is an epochal
 event in the life of anyone who is blessed with the opportunity. Most students never get beyond the graduate, and that is a very sad mistake
 for them to make, and a still graver
 mistake on the part of the parents,
 providing the latter deliberately give
 their consent to a child leaving high school without graduation, when it is not necessary.

The first day in high school marks
 the beginning of an important event
 in the life of the young man or young woman who enjoys the privilege of acquiring this important education.

There will come a time in the history of this country, when a young person without a high school diploma

 is going to find things hard in life.
 For education is the stepping stone to success and independence and without it all is slavish labor and interminable discouragement.

UNDER FALSE COLORS?

The announcement made this morning that Seymour Parker Gilbert, Jr. has been named agent general for the Dawes reparations plan
 taking the place of Owen Young who has been temporarily holding the post, directs particular attention to Mr. Young's work. The Republicans
 in their campaign are concentrating on their vice presidential candidate as an outstanding statesman and the only man who has had any measure
 of success in reducing the chaos of post war settlements by the production of what is called the "Davies"
 plan. It is largely on this vehicle that the Republican managers expect to ride him to success in November. President Coolidge's speech of acceptance harped on Mr. Davies'
 work and the vice presidential candidate did not hesitate, though with some modesty, to admit that he was a factor in the drawing up of the settlement plan.

American correspondents who have been attending the reparations session in Paris have been impressed with Mr. Young's work. It was he,
 according to these writers, who is deserving of the highest tribute for actual accomplishment. It was he who dug out the facts bearing on the stabilization of currency without which the Davies plan could never have stood. Mr. Young however, has not been mentioned in the public prints. He has been overshadowed by the more dominating figure of Charles Davies, his pipe and his profanity.
 All the glamor which comes with success rests upon him and there is no thought given to his corps of assistants who did the work and without whom the candidate today would still be lurking an inconspicuous figure in some distant office.

ANVIL SPARKS

A British woman writer says women can't understand men. Well,
 we say this is lucky for both sides.

 she won't be a model wife.

 cars some day. They are trying to do it now by knocking them out of

 goes free.

Calomel Its Use and Misuse.

The other day I read a statement
 by a physician to this effect: "In the State of Illinois, without calomel,
 this is, I am sure, the common belief among physicians who practice
 in the south and amongst the people on whom they practice. The people hold the belief even more strongly than the physicians do. The amount of calomel taken by the people on their own initiative, without any medical advice, is far greater than that used when they are told to use it by the doctor."

Changing medical opinion is not my field. When a medical has been examined by a physician and has been told
 to take calomel, it would be folly for
 an outsider to pass on that opinion.
 He would not know on what conditions in the patient that advice was based. But when a person takes calomel
 on his own hook on the general idea
 that he needs it for his liver, or so as to make genuine absorb, that is a different matter.

As to the action of calomel on the liver, Dr. W. C. Alvarez says: "The relief obtained by taking calomel can-hardly be due to any action on the liver because the pharmacologists all agree that there is none." This is a statement of fact. Most careful and scientific studies, repeated many times
 have always shown that when calomel
 is taken the liver is in no sense directly acted on.

The notion that the liver is torpid in hot weather or in hot climate is not accurate and scientific. The notion that calomel is needed, especially
 a liver stimulant by people in hot climates, is not based on any scientific investigations. The use of calomel
 among people in hot climates in various parts of the world is not based on fact. The notion might be said to be peculiar to the southern part of North America, and there are many warm sections of the world where the people have never heard of any such notion. That a preliminary dose of calomel or other ordinary purgative
 does not aid in the absorption of quinine was proven by research work done
 at Johns Hopkins. The prevailing opinion now is that bacteria pass through the intestinal wall readily and that some of the disorders attributed to poisonous putrefaction products absorbed from the intestine are really
 due to absorbed bacteria. Bacteria hold that a time bacteria pass
 through the intestinal wall more readily during spells of diarrhea than during constipation.

The baby specialists tell us that the giving of purges to sick babies as a routine procedure has done as much harm as good, maybe more. In all probability, taking people as they are, it is wise for the average man

 to take a mild purge as a part of his treatment for malaria.

All accumulation in the lived end
 of the large intestine sets up reverse
 peristalsis and thereby slows down
 and absorption, coats the tongue,
 causes the breath to be foul, and
 brings about discomfort in other ways.
 But there are simpler and more effective ways of relieving the bowels of taking calomel. An enema will sometimes suffice. So will a simple laxative or a dose of castor oil. When calomel acts as a laxative it helps in the manner indicated. But calomel
 is a poor laxative and frequently
 must be followed by some other bowel medicine. Instead of being the best remedy of this sort, it is one of the poorest ones.

To Remove Liver Spots.

Mrs. T. writes: Is there anything that will remove liver, or as some call
 them, moth patches, from the face?

REPLY.

Some correspondents have written
 that they were benefited by long continued use of a saturated solution of hypophosphite of soda applied locally.

The Referee

By ALBERT APPLE

Police are testing the eyesight of all traffic law violators in Chicago.
 They find drivers who cannot see 20 feet away. Small wonder, there are so many accidents.

But why stop at arrested drivers?
 Every car owner should have his vision examined before giving him a license. Also, he should be tested for sanity and quick decision. A half-blind, nervous or low-intelligence
 driver is apt to be as dangerous as a speed maniac with callous conscience
 and hard heart.

The auto is as dangerous as a loaded pistol, unwise handled.

MURDEROUS

A lot of auto drivers still are indifferent about the safety of pedestrians. This is shown when they fail to apply brakes with excessive caution—let the walker "look out for himself." An occasional driver
 even swerves his car to make pedestrians jump back to the curb—
 and laughs.

These people are murderers at heart, without the courage to kill.
 They vent their maliciousness or high nervous tension at the risk of the lives of people afoot. Assured of not being punished, many of these
 "would run down a pedestrian with glee."

PROHIBITION

Uncle Sam's rum scouts are arrest ing liquor law violators at the rate of 50,000 a year and convicting 35 out of every 41. Fifty thousand arrests in a population of about 112 millions! This is number eight to be added to the list of seven original jokes. How many violators escape entirely? Hundreds of thousands or millions? The nets still are spread too much for minnows, not enough
 for whales.

RESPONSIBLE

Nervous or malicious auto drivers
 cause confused walking who get in their way. They forget that the pedestrian has other cars to dodge every day—hundreds of them.

The pedestrian must be cautious,
 as well as the driver, that's common sense. But the driver has the lion's share of responsibility, the same as the hunter. The man with the instrument of injury or death—a hunting rifle—should many times as careful as the hunter wearing a red hat so he won't be shot for a deer. So with autos.

ALCOHOLISM

Deaths from alcoholism are increasing steadily, medical statistics show. At least twice as many are being killed by liquor as in 1920. And not all by poison booze by any means. Chronic alcoholism still leads. Maybe the deaths are jumping because 1924 hooch kills earlier
 in life than the old-time "aged in the wood."

Good whisky is an assassin, not
 so much on account of the alcohol,
 but because medicinal compound
 high ethers haven't been developed by aging in the cask.

TALK

That standardized individual, the average American, uses the phone
 nine times as often as the average Englishman.

This places the utility companies
 as a sample of our leadership in mechanical progress and convenience.
 But it's only what's to be expected.
 The U. S. is a nation of the future.
 Only the blithes believe that there is such a thing as talking too much.

"Winter lingers in the lap of spring," wrote the other poet, and we write "Summer loafs in the lap
 of the kitchen stove."

Now Go On With THE STORY

"There's another one roaming
 around here somewhere," she said.
 "Listen again."

"After a short interval both heard
 it—a faint whinny from off among the trees."

"Don't move," said Sally. "This one will answer in a minute. They'll get together, or else I don't know how long it will take."

Presently her prediction was realized, but it took another call from the distance before the bridled horse answered.

"Say, right here, Henry. The other one will come to us. You might have that rifle ready, just in case—
 There may be somebody riding it."
 You know, looking for this one, I was ready to shoot at anything moving rapidly now. There was another interchange of calls and Sally came more tightly to the bridge of their captive. The Wreck stood ready to shoot at anything that looked like a man. Sally auditioned him not to be too quick; he did not want any blood-letting unless
 it was a final alternative.

Out of the brush and into the dim light came a second riderless horse.
 "Hold this one," said Sally, giving the bridge to the Wreck. He had a second instant later she had a second captive.

"Bridled and saddled like the first one," he exclaimed. "Did you ever hear of such luck?"

"What do you make out of it?"
 "They must belong to Nosey and Lefty. I suppose they left them standing somewhere, maybe, while
 they got out of the storm themselves,
 and the poor things got scared and ran away. I don't blame them."

"Well, what are we going to do with 'em?"

Sally peered at him through the gloom, as if trying to see whether he was serious.

"Do with them," she echoed, in amazement. "What do you usually do with a horse? Kiss it? You big silly, we're going to ride them."

The Wreck made a grimace.
 "How about my car?" he demanded.
 "No, we're not. Are you crazy?"

So long as we've got their horses,
 let them keep the car. We do not want to go messing around with camp again tonight. We're liable to get ourselves into trouble again.
 Don't try to push your luck too far,
 Henry. Williams. We're in big luck
 now—we've got their horses, two of them, anyhow. And we've got one rifle. What more could we ask?"

He pondered the proposition gloom-ily. He could not treat the idea of abandonment so lightly; not that it was particularly valuable to him in dollars but there was a bond of sentiment to be considered. Yet he could see the sound sense at the bottom of her verdict. After all, he was pri-

to soothe the frightened animal, back in the darkness. He knew her.
 "We have stolen the sheriff's horse!"
 she gasped.
 "Found 'em," corrected the Wreck.
 "Oh, Henry!"
 "Well, what of it?"
 "But—What in the world does it mean? I'm all mixed up."
 "The Wreck did not have any very clear idea of what it meant, but the discovery was rather pleasing to him.
 Unconsciously, he assumed a more
 jaunty pose in the saddle.
 "One horse is the same as another
 to me," he remarked. "You thought they were good enough when we found 'em in the woods. What is the matter with 'em now? Why he must have been right close to us!"
 "Well, he didn't find us, did he?"
 remarked the Wreck, triumphantly.
 He even risked his seat by leaning forward and stroking the neck of the black horse.
 Sally glanced at her own mount.
 She could not remember ever having seen the animal before. It was a medium-sized bay, rather easily kept,
 but evidently not built for speed.
 "We must have all been pretty close together in the woods," mused Sally. "Think of that. Of course, Bob didn't know about us; he could not have. But he must have been pretty hot on the trail. If that gang suppose that is what Nosey was worried about last night, when he and Lefty went down to watch the main road. What I don't understand is how they lost their horse, and how they got some scouting on foot and didn't figure on any storm messing things up. This one I'm riding,
 of course, must belong to 'somebody
 in the posse."

The Wreck grinned down at the mount. In some measure the black horse compensated for the loss of the filly.

"I'll bet Bob's just crazy," said
 Sally.
 "Sure."

"Why, if anything happened to that horse—when? He'd sooner let the whole gang get away than lose
 his horse."

"Well, he can have it back when I'm through with it," said the Wreck
 with an airy shrug. "I'll exchange it
 for a thrasher in any time."

And the humiliation of it," continued Sally, talking half to herself. "Think of a sheriff going out to catch somebody and having somebody else run off with his horse. Can you see it, Henry?"

"I can see it fine."

"Ald there he is, back in the woods
 there somewhere. Nothing to do ride and probably the gang laughing
 at him."

"Well, it's a good laugh," agreed
 the Wreck.

"It is awful!"
 "Is it?" He looked at her sharply.
 "What's the idea? Do you want to go back and hand him his plus and say, 'Here we are. Take us to the hoghouse?'"

Sally shook her head impatiently.
 "Of course not. We cannot. But I'm just trying to make you understand what a frightful fix it is for a sheriff to be in. Oh, he must be simply wild! Just imagine yourself
 in his place."

With only a few more months of Leap Year left some are desperate.

Soon be time for the annual coal shortage to set in.

The chief wonder of the presidential race is it is struggling along without a cow-milking or hay-pitching contest.

The chief trouble with money is it never is quite enough.

Los Angeles girl who drank iodine
 was saved and now she can claim

 fee.

 idea for our auto-driving pedestrians
 to try this diet.

Scoop's Colyum

DRAKES BRANCH. September 3—Grapevine Wireless.—Among the upstanding features of the retail merchants' dinner at the Country Club last night,
 was the suggestion of the Rutledge
 Carter of the new industries committee that we look into the advisability of establishing a chicken fact-tory in Danville trading territory. We are in favor of the idea as this will give up
 another spring crop and take up the slack complained of in this local-
 ity. With tobacco, corn and cotton harvested in the fall we have all of our money for Christmas,
 and nothing much to go on when the swimming pools open in the summer. If left to a vote of the people, we are sure that Chicken
 would be chosen as the national bird
 by an overwhelming majority. So the Rutledge line-up on the winning side and forever bury the hatchet of political strife, personal ambition and selfish purpose.

Another scheme, proposed by Dave Penn, the well rounded secretary of the R. M. A., which appeals to our Scotch proclivities, contemplates the establishment of "Flag Avenue" to do away with haphazard decorating of
 the city upon occasions of importance and meetings of the Red Men,
 etc. This plan will save the merchants many dollars, and also give us a dignified display of the flag and the hooligans who decorate the city
 do not clean up after they make their
 "clean-up." Brother Penn proposes (and Louis Kaufman concurs) that each Main street merchant bore an 8-inch hole in the concrete sidewalk
 in front of his store so that a 4x6
 flag can be displayed on a 12-foot pole throughout the whole length of the retail district. Mr. Penn states that the flag pole and hole can be secured for $4.00 (which seems to us a very low price)—and we are in favor of giving him the contract at once before he finds out what the job will cost.

The Kaufman-Hoffman-Herman
 debate was enjoyed by all present,
 this was precipitated by Charles Orchard's amendment to the advertising resolution which was finally decided by a 5-4 margin. When W. B.
 Smith told of the marvelous undeveloped water-power of the Rappahannock River above Fredericksburg,
 whose potential force would light up
 the whole State, it was seen that this would put out of business all the washerwomen from the Potomac
 unto the far reaches of the Dan, and Sam Martin just sat back and grinned.

A lot of other orators brightened
 the corners also, but as this colyum
 is now full, we will throttle down right here.

The hard thing about making
 money last is making money first,
 murmurs Junius.

Another thing, says Col. Bill Her-ner, that needs four wheel brakes is
 the family purse.

New York Teams Split Double Bills With Boston Clubs

BROOKLYN MAKING STRONG BID FOR PENNANT HAVING WON 21 OF LAST 25 GAMES

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Brooklyn, John Aldin, of the National League, has abandoned its suit to Miss Pennant for the game on the speaking for itself. Throughout the season the Platoon representative obligingly lost game after game to its Manhattan neighbor, on the last western trip after the Pirates had taken four straight games from the team the Platoon temporarily blocked the path of McKechnie's men by inflicting three defeats.

But still the Giants were bashful; the bold Pirates, however, were not. Instantly and Brooklyn, heading the urging of Dazzy Vance, began to speak for itself. The Robins have won 21 of the last 25 games played, have picked nine contests of the Giant lead in three weeks and are today only two contests behind the leaders and one back of Pittsburgh in second place.

Familiarly considered as a tail to Dazzy Vance's kite, the Robins yesterday reversed the arrangement by beating out a 12 to 9 victory after the Phillies had knocked Vance from the box in one inning. The feat temporarily preserved Dazzy's string of victories from interruption. Following a recent loss to the Phillies to five hits and won the game, 4 to 4.

The Giants exchanged bows with Boston. Cooney beat them 7 to 3 in the first game but McQuillan held the Braves to five hits in the second for a 10 to 2 victory. Jimmy O'Connell, famous $75,000 beauty, who broke into the game when Wilson was injured Monday, made six hits in nine times at bat.

The youthful Pirates and the Cubs were restrained by rain at Pittsburgh. St. Louis and Cincinnati were not scheduled to play.

Washington, after winning 14 of its last 17 starts, rested yesterday but the Yankees remained a game and a half behind the Senators by splitting a doubleheader with the Red Sox, losing the first 14 to 6 and winning the second 5 to 2.

Ruth retired from the second game with a lame left arm but the injury is not serious. Earl Coughlin, recruit, was broke into the regular lineup in June and a few days after broke a leg, returned to the game for the first time yesterday as a pinch hitter but failed to produce.

Detroit virtually fell out of the race seven games back of Washington by dropping two to the tall end White Sox who almost climbed out of the cellar. In the first game Thurston allowed seven blows in the 6 to 2 victory, his eighteenth of the season. Leonard was knocked from the box.

Cleveland drove Shocker off the mound and won a 12 to 4 verdict over the Browns. Jamieson had five of the 18 Indian hits. Philadelphia was not scheduled.

of national and international importance as the current month. The national singles tennis tourney began last month, but the high lights of the season are yet to come.

Monday saw the great Epinard's first race at Belmont Park, an event which it is believed will lead to the establishment of house racing as a regular feature upon the calendar of international sports.

Labor Day also saw the beginning of the women's national golf tourney at Belmont Park, R. I., as well as the final heat in the famous regatta for the gold cup (motorboats) at Detroit.

On September 4, Pancho Villa will defend his world's flyweight title against Frankie Genaro, the American champion, at Brooklyn, and on September 6, the French and Australian tennis players will compete for the honor of entering the Davis cup challenge round at Germantown.

Oyster Day on September 6 will be the first of the first of the annual international home and home series between the six-meter sloops of the United States and England and from September 5 to September 7, the national senior and junior A. A. C. track and field championships will be held in Jersey.

Next Saturday, September 6, will see polo fours of England and the United States engaging in the first of the 1924 polo series at Meadowbrook. Further games will be held on the tenth and thirteenth.

The challenge rounds in the Davis cup matches will be held at Germantown, September 11-13 and September 11 also will see the great international battle between Luis Firpo and Harry Watson, September 12 and 13 are the days of the Walker Cup matches at Garden City between teams representing America and England.

The Professional Golfers' Association tourney will start at French Creek, Louisiana, September 15. The amateur golf meet will occupy the week of September 20-23 at Merion, Pa., and the month's activities will end September 22 with the much-talked-of battle between Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, and Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion.

How Ruth and Hornsby Compare In Past 4 Years

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—When President Heydler of the National League proclaimed that, in his judgment, Rogers Hornsby was a greater batsman than "Babe" Ruth, the admirers of the Bambino, after a search through the records, discovered to their amazement that Heydler was exactly right. The figures bear out his assertion.

Ruth's admirers throughout the nation, after reading Heydler's words of praise in behalf of the great St. Louis second baseman, no doubt the National League president favored the Hornsby slightly.

The figures revealed today show that for the last four years Hornsby had a grand average of .388 as compared with .366 for the American League star.

The figures show that since joining the Yankees in 1920, Ruth has socked out 231 home runs, including those of this season, while Hornsby had connected with 112. The St. Louis star, however, averages the honors in total number of hits and in doubles and triples. Hornsby in the last four years, excluding this season, has garnered 566 hits while Ruth's best effort was 702.

Mary Browne to Play Mrs. Jackson

NAYATT, R. I., Sept. 3.—Two of the eight contestants in the second round of the women's national golf tournament attracted special attention at the Rhode Island Country club today.

Miss Mary K. Browne, of Santa Monica, California, whose early victories were won by Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson, of Greenwich, Conn., showed that she has possibilities of going as far in golf as she did in tennis, was matched against Miss Louise Fordyce, of Youngstown, Ohio.

Young golfer of great skill and experience.

The other feature match was between Miss Edith Cummings, of Chicago, the defending champion and Miss Muriel Burns, of Kansas City. They met recently in the final round of the women's western tournament, and Miss Cummings won with ease, but Miss Burns had been ill.

MANY PRACTICE GAMES

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Scores of America's best professional golfers and a goodly number of amateurs today tested their skill over the links of the Elmhurst Country club in final preparation for the start tomorrow of the western open championship. Among the players was Jack Hutchison of Chicago, defending champion.

Cards Pay Record Price For Star

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 3.—Chic Hafey, kid outfielder with the Houston Texas League ball club, is the money this year in the Lone Star circuit.

Hafey was recently sold to the St. Louis Cardinals for $20,000.

This tops any price ever paid for a Texas League player.

Chic is 21 years old. His home is in Oakland, Calif., where he learned the game on the sandlots.

In those days he wanted to be a pitcher. His ability as a hitter made him more valuable for every-day service, so he trotted out to the outfield and started shagging flies.

This is the second time the Cards have looked Hafey over. Two seasons ago Branch Rickey bought him, too young and shipped him to Fort Smith.

Last year with the Western Association club Hafey only hit .284, but he made 42 two-baggers, 14 three-baggers and 16 home runs.

Hafey has been hitting around .360 this season and they say the Texas League is a pitcher's league. He bats from the right side.

"I used to hit 'em high. Now I try to hit 'em on the line," is the way Chic accounts for the improvement in his average.

He'll report to the Cardinals at the close of the Texas League season September 14.

Trapshooting Meet Comes to a Close

(By The Associated Press.)
ROANOKE, Va., Sept. 3.—The twenty-fifth annual tournament of the Virginia trapshooters association, pronounced by many of the 150 who participated "the greatest shoot ever held in Virginia," is today a matter of history, the tournament having closed yesterday afternoon at Dr. G. R. Richards' trap.

Both the single target championship and the amateur all round championship, with H. C. Laird, of Norfolk, as runner-up in both contests.

Dr. Richards' 28 birds out of 100 in the single target contest were won after a hard struggle, the Roanoke being behind at the end of the first 100 shots, but forging ahead in the second hundred. He finished with 196 breaks out of a possible 200, having a 100 per cent record.

The all round championship contest resulted in a tie under the rules of the association which called for sixteen yards singles, 16 pairs of doubles, and 16 hundred yards targets. Both Laird and Richards scored 330 out of a possible 350. In the tie-breaking event, which consisted of 20 sixteen yard singles, 16 pairs of doubles, and 16 hundred yards targets, Laird got 184 out of a possible 200.

The most remarkable feat of the day was performed by Paul Earle, of Star, C., who broke 35 birds out of 100 in the Virginia handicap shooting from the 23 yard line. His score was two above that of Allen C. Phillips, who won the handicap, shooting from the 17 yard line, and the third in the title as he is a non-resident.

E. J. Storr, of Norfolk, captured the state title in professional single target shooting with 196 out of a possible 200, a mark which was equaled by C. C. Smith, of Tampa, Florida, who was not eligible for the title, not being a resident of the state.

P. N. Shelton, of Roanoke, and L. S. German, of Clarendon, tied for professional double target shooting, scoring 330 breaks and 350 out of a possible hundred. The tie was not shot off owing to departure of German before the tournament was over.

German of Clarendon won the professional all round title with 325 hits out of 350 shots.

With a score of 179 out of 200, Miss Belissa C. Cleaves, of Wytheville, captured the women's championship of Virginia, her mark being only six below that of Miss Georgiana Hobbes, of Bowling Green, Ky., who won the grand American handicap at Dayton last week.

High man for the two days' shooting, was Paul Earle, of Star, C., who broke 338 birds out of 400.

All trophies won in this shoot by Paul Earle of Star, S. C., and F. M. Troeh, of Vancouver, Washington, will be melted down and cast into one trophy to be put at the 1925 tournament of the Virginia trapshooters association. It was announced, the trophy to be contested for by five of the best marksmen in the world—F. M. Troeh, A. A. Saden, Paul Earle, who will invite Paul Miller, of Dallas, Tex., world's champion, single target, and Frank Hughes, world double target champion, to join them.

Firpo's Training Camp Is Shifted to Madison Square

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The training camp of Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, has been suddenly shifted from Saratoga Springs to Madison Square Garden.

The South American will tune up his punches for Harry Willis under the careful eye of Tex Rickard while his attorneys will sharpen up their legal jabs for the anticipated battle with Canon Chase, which is set for September 26, nine days after his ring engagement with Willis.

The local net which Canon Chase has set to bring about Firpo's deportation has so perturbed the Argentine that he could not concentrate on his training and as a result Rickard yesterday ordered the South American to come to New York to finish his work.

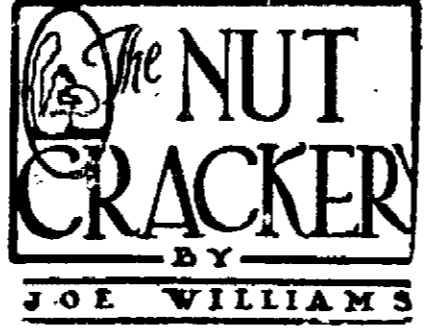

Firpo looks to be fit. He said upon his arrival that he weighs 220 pounds, two pounds more than he expects to scale when the steps into the ring against Will at Boyle's Thirty Acres, September 11.

Wrestler Injured In Match With Strangler Lewis

(By The Associated Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Pat McGill of Omaha, was unable to continue a wrestling bout here last night after Ed "Strangler" Lewis, world's heavyweight champion, had pinned the first fall with a hold in 50 minutes and 24 seconds. The Omaha wrestler was removed to a hospital in an unconscious condition, where it was learned he was suffering from a wrenched vertebrae.

CHIC HAFEY

We are grieved to hear Carpenter is through with the ring forever. We are grieved because we know he isn't.

You can get a nice live buffalo free from the government, the papers say. This is at least better than plain bull.

There are times when Mike McGuire reminds you of a regular champion. For instance, he wants $75,000 to defend his title.

Interesting to note that Tilden in the movies is that we will get to see if he looks any worse in something besides white flannels.

It is reported that Epinard's win is bad. This is an unusual condition for a European visitor.

Prince of Wales carries his own music box around with him. Well, we can't all be perfect.

On National Defense Day we suppose golfers on crowded public courses will be required to duck without customary warning of "Fore."

Inability to count beyond that number may explain why Jack Renault knocked Homer Smith down only seven times.

Mr. O'Goofy observes: "Some women are just naturally funny looking. Others persist in wearing flimsy knickers."

Football is one of America's oldest games, yet no one has solved the mystery of why the Columbia team comes out for practice.

In season replete with tennis upsets, most astonishing of all came when one of the star appeared without towel wrapped around his head.

If you can picture Coolidge climbing flagstaff for the news weeklies, Mr. Ruth refusing to be interviewed, and Judge Landis with a boyish bob, then you can believe the fight press agent who writes "Firpo has developed the science of a Corbett."

Investigation of Charges Against Firpo Speeded Up

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Immigration Commissioner Curran at New York notified the labor department today that the investigation of charges against Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, preferred in the hope of securing his deportation, would be concluded within the next two days.

The message was taken as another indication of the determination of officials to bring the case speedily to a conclusion. Whether the final report of the investigators will be awaited before action is taken, the department here is not revealed, as of this have received preliminary information upon which they are being urged by Firpo's accusers to act.

WONT AFFECT ENGAGEMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The deportation charges brought against Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, by the Rev. Wm. S. Chase, of New York and his associates are expected by persons in close touch with the department of labor to have no effect on the big fighter's engagement to meet Harry Willis, negro ring star, September 11.

The investigation, meanwhile, had not progressed last night to the point where a deportation hearing by an American board was in order. Department officials asked Henry H. Curran, immigration commissioner in charge at Ellis Island, for a report on the inquiry yesterday and were informed that it was proceeding in due course but had not been completed.

GOLF MATCHES BEGIN

(By The Associated Press.)

Lieut. G. I. Lawyer, New York and Captain Charles Watson, Atlanta, Ga.

The Sportsman

By WALTER CAMP

(Copyright, 1924 by The Bee.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Before we forget the tennis lessons of the season let us give credit to the Kinsey brothers for sticking to their guns and lobbing to Patterson and Wood in their doubles match despite all the dire predictions of their friends that such a course would be suicide. And this is the lesson:

A man like Patterson or anybody else as accomplished as the Australian may kill one of them, and another and another—but when men as skillful as the Kinseys keep feeding lob after lob, the opponents head is in the air, much to the delight of the spectators. The writer has seen the net or out of the court. It becomes a problem of repeatedly orienting one's self while looking at the stars. And that is the way it worked out for the Kinseys.

One golf writer, speaking about the follow through, says "The club head is traveling at a terrific rate of speed at the moment of impact and as the ball must first flatten out on the club and then rebound it is very naturally supposed that the ball cannot get away as quickly as if it was a hard substance you were hitting. The fast traveling club would at least be held to the ball then six inches, but many theorists say it sticks for a foot."

This is another of the theories that are exploded by a properly arranged shutter and picture. The ball gets away much more quickly than many persons imagine. The writer has photographs which show the club head, so far as the eye can judge, still at the point of impact over the tee, while the ball itself, a long white streak, has gotten away many inches in its flight.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The tennis season of 1924, now closing, has been in many respects one of the greatest in history. Certainly there has never been a greater year for tennis interest.

The visit of Miss Helen Wills to Wimbledon, where she won not the championship, but a host of friends, and her triumph at the olympics, have set more girls and women playing tennis and playing it with a purpose than ever before.

And the work of our men players has added incentive to the court followers among boys and men. More room has been acquired for the development of municipal and public park tennis, the colleges and schools have added materially to their facilities and equipment for the game. On the whole, the National Lawn Tennis Association can take credit for a deal of fine constructive work.

Now a word as to the development of the play itself. Several times within the last two decades it has been the general opinion of critics and experts that the game had more or less crystallized into certain accepted lines. The old volleys came and went. The base line game and its last extraordinary exponent, Richards, was eclipsed by the volleying school with its Whitman and others. Then came the fiery dash of McLaughlin. There followed a more rounded game in which openings were made in base line play for properly timed dashes to the net. Strokes of all kinds had improved and greater pace had been acquired.

But the chop stroke and the lob had been classed by most of the experts as occasional weapons of attack and defense, used as trick plays in football, or as a means of extralining one's self from a bad position. The Kinseys this season showed the lob as a real attack and Wallace Johnson demonstrated the chop stroke as a weapon that even ranking tennis

TILDEN TENNIS CHAMPION FOR 5TH SUCCESSIVE TIME

(By The Associated Press.)

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Wm. T. Tilden, 11, of Philadelphia, today holds more securely more than ever the tennis throne he has ruled for the past four years. Gaining his fifth successive championship yesterday by crushing Wm. Johnston of San Francisco, in the final round, 6-1, 3-7, 6-2, the tall titleholder, in the opinion of veteran critics, clinched his place as the greatest racket wielder of all times.

Among the games most brilliant figures—William, learned McLaughlin "the comet," Johnston, and Norris Williams, among the Americans, the famous Doherty brothers of Great Britain; Norman Brookes and "Toby" Wilding of the anti-podes, Tilden stands out as the super player, the greatest shot maker of them all, in the opinion of the sport keenest critics.

Johnston was a courageous figure in defeat but a badly beaten one. Johnston found his swiftest forehander returned with even greater pace and went down to defeat under a dazzling display of shots that came upon him from all sides. No player in the world could have withstood that array of guns and Johnston did well to hold back his opponent as long as he did.

It was Tilden's fifth triumph over "Little Bill" in the past six years they have crossed rackets in the title tournament. Not since he downed "Big Bill" in the finals of 1919 has the Californian been able to overcome his Philadelphia rival.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

QUESTIONS

1.—There are runners on first and second and one out. Batsman hits a fly ball which the umpire immediately calls an infield fly. There is a strong wind blowing that finally carries the ball foul, without any fielder touching the ball. Is the batter out because the umpire first ruled it an infield fly?—B. D. F.

2.—When the umpire is of the opinion that the ball and the runner have arrived at the base at exactly the same time, is it customary to favor the runner in rendering a ruling?—F. G. G.

3.—It is the last half of the ninth, two out and the score 2 to 1 in favor of the visiting team. There are men on first and second and two out. The batsman hits a ball that goes between the center fielder and the right fielder, rolling to the extreme corner of the field. The two men on the bases, as well as the batsman, cross the plate before the ball is returned to the infield. Is the batsman credited with a home run and what is the final score of the game?—D. D. K.

ANSWERS

1.—It is impossible to rule infield fly on a foul ball, as was the case due to the high wind blowing over the field. The umpire who first called the hit infield fly, must reverse himself and simply declare it a foul ball.

2.—If in the opinion of the umpire the base runner has tied the play, he rules him safe. A. L.

3.—The batsman is not entitled to a home run. The game ends when the runner on first crosses the plate, the final score being 3 to 2. The batsman's credit for a triple, having advanced the winning run that many bases on his drive. If the ball had been batted out of the playing field, over the fence or into the stands, the batter would have been credited with a home run and the final score would have been 4 to 2.

QUESTIONS

1. There is a runner on first base. He attempts a steal of second. The umpire back of the plate is working so close to the catcher that he interferes with that player in making his throw to second. The ball goes to right field and the runner reaches third. What is the proper ruling on such a play?—A. L.

2. Has a pitcher the right to get players were not able to meet.

What does it mean? Well, one should revise his estimates of these strokes and it all goes to show that there is still much to consider in the court game in the way of strategy. The defeat of Kinsey by Tilden and the defeat of Johnson by Richards does not materially alter these conclusions.

ALLEGED KLANSMEN OPENED FIRE ON SHERIFF FIRST

(By The Associated Press) MARION, Ill., Sept. 2.—Sheriff George Galligan and Deputy Oia Thomas today in an interview declared that members of the Ku Klux Klan of Williamson county opposed to law enforcement by duly constituted authorities, killed Deputy Sheriff "Bud" Allison, Saturday at Herrin before a shot was fired by the sheriff or any of his deputies or any one else. Galligan and Thomas admitted they did most of the shooting for the Williamson forces in the battle at Smith's garage, in which six men were killed and several wounded.

Regulating to ministers of Williamson county who are demanding that he be removed from office, Galligan said that four Protestant ministers whom he named, could restore law and order in Williamson county if they would cease preaching "murder and law enforcement by the Ku Klux Klan."

orough until passing motorist came to his assistance. He brought them to Alexandria, turned them over to the police, had his scalp treated in a hospital, and went back to Greensboro to hunt for the other man.

Miss Wilcox, police assert, declared she planned the holdup and put all of her 100 pounds behind the blow that stunned the chauffeur, using an unloaded pistol which she threw away. Hainsborough, however, is said to have denied vigorously that the girl struck the blow, saying this was done by the missing man, a stranger to him. He and the girl are both former residents of Delray, Virginia.

"I'm sorry I didn't get away with it," she is quoted as saying. "If I had more experience, I'd have gotten away with it."

DUGGAS ACCOUNT CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Duggas, an aristocratic bulldog, is preparing for old age. He earns his money by going about the premises of homes in order and by "running errands." Once a week, he takes a collection of dimes and quarters to the bank and stands in front of the teller's window on his hind legs. His balance is $68 with no withdrawals.

Age will vie with youth in the International Air Races at Wilbur Wright Field, Dayton, O., the first week in October. Here are the oldest and youngest contestants—Ralph Dickinson, of Chicago, who admits 66 years, and Ted Moellendick, of Wichita, Kas., just 17.

The plan failed, police say, the girl told them with a regretful shake of her bobbed hair, because of her inexperience, and John H. Fisher, a Washington chauffeur cast for the role of victim in her first "job" was enabled to turn the tables, capturing her and her companion. Another youth, whose name she refused to give, escaped.

After engaging him in Washington last night to drive them to an address in Mt. Vernon, Fisher reported, one of the male members of the trio left the car and came back shortly saying no one was there. They started back toward the capitol. When they reached Gunpowder, Va., he alleged, he was struck over the head and dazed, ditched his car. Recovering quickly, he related, he drew a pistol and held Miss Wilcox and Han-
